

Invitation to the Revolution

Invitation!

You don't need an Invitation
To the revolution
All are welcome
To work on the solution

You won't get a hallmark invite
No doorman to take your coat
Won't get celebrity seating
Cause we're in the same boat

Put aside tour ego
Don't bring your religion
Stroll into any occupy square
There's room for a million

General assembly meetings
Participatory democracy
Workers don't be tardy
You're the life of the party

You don't need an Invitation
To the revolution
Be conscientious, be brave
Your presence is your contribution

Here you won't get a medal
Here you must be prepared
Stand with the working class
Get hand-cuffed, pepper sprayed

Win the heart of the working class
Non-violence is our mode
Get billy-clubbed, shot or jailed
Peaceful revolution is our code

Powerful and non-violent
Create a new America
The power of the people
Is the new genre

From Civil Rights to poor Whites
Coalition, work together
Unite the Left and Labor
Anti-imperialist
To share wealth and power

[You don't need an Invitation
To the revolution
Cause it's your party] X3

Mike check – Revolution X3

Mike check- revolucion X3

[You don't need an Invitation
To the revolution
Cause it's your Party] X3

Invitation!

Julio Rodriguez

Puerto Rican-Panamanian, living in Highland Park-Los Angeles, California since 1976. Raised in Buffalo, New York. Conga player, writing poetry and lyrics only since 2010. " Watch out World, I finally found my niche " !!! I play my own poetry (social and or political) to different Afro-latino conga rhythms i.e., guaguanco, merengue, marcha/tumbao, songo, samba and timba rhythms. As a progressive thinker and poet, my job is to entertain and provoke critical thinking.